Public Liability Insurance Questions & Answers

Public Liability Insurance only covers you when you are working within the requirements of your registration (this also applies to your assistant/helper), so it is important that you know the limits of your registration with the Care Inspectorate and stick to them, or your insurance cover might be compromised.

The policy covers childminders for situations where they are legally liable for accidental injury to a third party or accidental loss or damage to the property of the third party in the course of their childcare activities. In order for a claim to be upheld, the registered childminder must be shown to be at fault and therefore legally liable for the injury, loss or damage.

It is important to note the following:

- (a) Before a childminder can become liable, s/he must have been held responsible within the terms of the policy, by the injured party.
- (b) The mere fact that an accident has occurred does not necessarily mean that the childminder is at fault.
- (c) To have been held responsible under the terms of the policy the childminder must have acted in a manner which shows that s/he has been careless or inattentive, that s/he has failed to do something which a reasonable person would do, or done something that a reasonable person would not have done.
- (d) There is NO cover under the policy for loss of, or damage to, the registered childminder's own property, or in the childminders custody or control. There is NO cover provided for the childminder's own children.
- (e) This insurance cover is only available to childminders who are members of Scottish Childminding Association (SCMA).
- (f) A copy of your registration certificate will be required when making any claim.
- (g) Childminders should take all reasonable precautions to prevent any accident or to stop any activity which may cause an accident and to maintain their home in a sound condition.
- (h) It is always best to have written permission from parents for any special arrangements made e.g. allowing children 'out to play' or walking to and from school unaccompanied.
- (i) No admission of liability, or payment, or promise of payment should be made by the childminder. The childminder should request a report or claim form from SCMA immediately.
- (j) An excess of £50.00 applies to the minded child's property

“It is always best to have written permission from parents for any special arrangements made e.g. allowing children “out to play” or walking to and from school unaccompanied.”

Q. If there is an emergency am I covered if I leave a minded child with a friend?

Only in an emergency can the minded child/children be left temporarily in the care of a responsible adult.

Q. Does cover apply if the childminder and children go abroad?

No

Q. Does cover apply to the Armed Forces outside the UK?

Yes

Q. When older children 'go out to play', does cover still apply?

Yes, if the childminder is the person responsible for them at that time. You are advised to obtain written permission from the parents to allow children to 'go out to play'.

Q. If the minded children are invited out, e.g. to birthday parties, should I stay with them?

Yes, the insurance cover will not apply if the registered childminder is not present, except in a genuine emergency.

Q. The children I care for go to a club that uses bouncy castles and soft play equipment. Are they covered on these?

Yes, provided the childminder is the person responsible for the children, the children are supervised at all times, risk assessments completed and the childminder has obtained written permission slips from the parents to allow the children to use the equipment.

Q. Are groups covered when they attend exhibitions, outings, crèches etc.?

Yes, the children are covered at all times as long as the childminder is present and is the person responsible for them.

Q. Can I get cover if I work at the minded child's home?

Yes, if they are the premises that you are registered to work from.

Q. What happens if a childminder and an assistant work together at the same premises?

All named persons on the registration certificate are covered by the Public Liability Insurance policy, even though only the name of the member who purchased the policy appears on the insurance certificate.

Q. Can two childminders together work from the same address?

Yes. If you are working with your partner or another childminder and they have a separate registration certificate, you, as a member will need to apply for an extra insurance policy for them. They would become policy holders in their own right. Only the member can purchase the second policy in the name of the second childminder against his/her membership.

"If the minded children are invited out, e.g. to birthday parties, should I stay with them?"

Q. Can I provide occasional crèche facilities?

We can provide indemnity to the registered childminder whilst operating away from her own business premises (home) and with children who are not under her normal charge as this is only occasional subject to completion of the Babysitting Checklist, risk assessment and adherence to the guidance that goes with this.

For a copy of the Babysitting Checklist visit the Membership Dashboard at childminding.org or call our Helpline on 01786 449063.

If the crèche were to expand into taking on employees etc. then we would not wish to provide cover for this as we would need to be involved in insisting that the crèche carry out regular PVG checks and would be a separate entity.

Q. When childminders attend meetings on childminding business, with or without the children, is there any Public Liability cover?

Yes. If the crèche were to expand into taking on employees etc. then we would not wish to provide cover for this as we would need to be involved in insisting that the crèche carry out regular PVG checks and would be a separate entity.

Q. If damage is caused to a minded child when the registered childminder has used physical punishment to discipline the child, will there be cover?

No. Physical punishment is a deliberate act, not an accidental one, and insurance cover will not apply. Physical punishment is an offence in Scotland.

Q. "Member to Member" indemnity is included. What does this mean?

Any claim made by any person insured against any other person insured shall be treated as though the party so claiming is not a person insured. For example, in a situation like a fundraising event where many registered insured childminders are present, if a registered childminder should break a leg because of the negligence of another registered childminder, cover would apply.

Some policies exclude the possibility of one member of an insurance scheme claiming against another member of the same scheme. This is not the case with SCMA's policy.

Employer's Liability Insurance

Q. What is meant by Employer's Liability Cover?

This is the amount of compensation (which the insured is legally liable to pay) for bodily injury (including illness or death) sustained by an employee arising out of and in the course of his or her employment. In this case "employee" includes people placed with a registered childminder under a work experience scheme or any form of employment scheme.

Q. I have a student, volunteer or work experience person assisting me with childminding. What insurance do I need?

You would need an Employers Liability Insurance certificate. This is free for members of SCMA who have valid Public Liability Insurance. Please contact SCMA on 01786 445377. You must advise the Care Inspectorate by completing the variation process before any placement starts.

Q. What is the situation when childminders are assisted by their own children, over 16, trainees or other students?

The childminder must be present at all times to ensure cover, except when there is an emergency. There is no cover if these people are in sole charge of the children.

Q. Do I need ELI if I employ an assistant?

It is essential that your Employers Liability Insurance (ELI) is valid and you follow the guidance within your Working with an Assistant booklet from SCMA. This booklet is available on the Membership Dashboard at childminding.org or please call the Helpline on 01786 449063.

Q. Does cover continue to apply if a childminder's own children have their friends round to play, thus increasing the number of children in the house?

The policy does not specifically exclude or include this situation. If an accident happened to a minded child, the fact that a non-minded child was also present would not make any difference to the cover. Common-sense should be used regarding the total number of children in the home.

Accidents and Incidents

Q.What should I do if an accident or incident occurs which could, at any time, result in a claim or possible claim, at a future date?

Potentially any accident or incident could become an insurance claim. All accidents must be recorded. Comprehensive and detailed record keeping is paramount, as all elements of your record will assist with the defence of a future claim.

If attention from a medical professional is required, you must contact SCMA and the Care Inspectorate to make them aware. Call SCMA on 01786 445377 to report the accident, and we will send you an insurance claim form. You must complete the insurance claim form – regardless of whether a claim is being made against you or not.

The completed form will further document the accident for insurance purposes, and will ensure a claim reference number is issued to protect your interest at a later date.

Q. How long should accident records be kept? 25 years.

Q.An incident has occurred and I have been required to attend the police station to make a statement.What can I do?

You need to be aware that you have access to a Duty Solicitor on request. Please make sure you have filled out an accident report and requested an insurance claim form as soon as possible from SCMA.

“Are my own household contents or other property covered by the policy?”

Q. Does the cover under this policy apply to motor accidents?

For full protection, you must tell your own motor insurance company that you use your car for childminding and arrange for the cover to be extended for business use. If you are permitted to use a vehicle which does not belong to you, e.g. a car belonging to the parent of the child in your care, then you must ensure that the owner's insurance is extended to allow you to drive on childminding business. It is the driver's responsibility to ensure that suitable motor insurance is in place. Failure to do so could result in prosecution under Road Traffic Legislation.

Q.Are legal fees covered?

Yes, but only with the authority of your insurers, and if you are indemnified by the policy. Generally, if you have been held responsible for injury or death of the minded child, your insurers will come and see you, obtain a statement and will handle everything themselves, thus relieving you, as much as possible, of the obvious stress. You must keep all paperwork relating to the incident and you must notify SCMA in writing immediately. Please note that you are not covered for any criminal act. If, however, you feel you have been wrongly accused, this is when the protection of a legal expenses policy is invaluable. Contact SCMA for details.

Q.Are my own household contents or other property covered by the policy?

No. Damage done by the minded child to your property is not covered by this policy. Your home contents insurance policy should cover this eventuality and you are advised to tell your insurer that you are childminding.

“Am I covered for giving prescribed drugs to a minded child?”

Q. What happens to my Public Liability Insurance policy if I move house?

The Public Liability Insurance policy remains in place, but cover is put on hold (no cover) until you have re-registered at your new property. It is advisable to let the Care Inspectorate know as soon as you have a date to move, so that arrangements can be made to inspect your new property. Once you have re-registered your Public Liability Insurance policy will then be active again. Please call SCMA on 01786 445377 to inform us of your new address and contact details.

Q. Am I covered to administer medication to a minded child in my care?

The childminder must follow Care Inspectorate guidance provided in the statutory framework which says:

Providers must have and implement a policy, and procedures, for administering medicines. It must include systems for obtaining information about a child's needs for medicines, and for keeping information up-to-date.

Training must be provided for staff where the administration of medicine requires medical or technical knowledge.

Medicines must not normally be administered unless they have been prescribed for a child by a doctor, dentist, nurse or pharmacist (medicines containing aspirin should only be given if prescribed by a doctor)

Medicine (both prescription and non-prescription) must only be administered to a child where written permission for that particular medicine has been obtained from the child's parent and/or carer. Providers must keep a written record each time medicine is administered to a child, and inform the child's parents and/or carers on the same day, or as soon as reasonably practicable.

Q. I have a child with an allergy am I covered to administer epi-pen?

The childminder must:-

Have written permission from the child's parents that they are authorised to administer the epi-pen and be aware of the correct dosage. The childminder should have on record the child's doctor's name, address and telephone number. Full training must have been received in usage of the epi-pen and any relevant refresher training undertaken as required. Any usage of the epi-pen must be recorded in full by the childminder, listing why and when the epi-pen was discharged. Parents must be informed as soon as the epi-pen has been used, or as reasonably practicable on the same day.

Q. If the minded child's property was left in my locked car while it was parked, would these items be covered if they were stolen?

No. The Public Liability Insurance will not cover this. You need to contact your car insurers and check the cover on your policy. Alternatively, make sure that the minded children's parents are covered for these items on their contents insurance policy, under "personal possessions outside the home" and that this includes such items as buggies and car seats.

Q. Are minded children covered when using garden play equipment?

Yes. Providing the childminder is with the children at all times and is the person responsible for them. The childminder must also have written permission from the child(ren)'s parents, complete a risk assessment and follow the manufacturer's guidelines.

Q. Am I covered if minded children use a trampoline in my garden?

You have a duty of care for the minded children ensuring safe environment etc. therefore the following guidelines will assist in minimising the risk of accident/injury:-

- Risk assessments being carried out
- Only one person being allowed on the trampoline at one time
- Children being supervised
- Exposed metalwork should be padded
- No somersaults or complex manoeuvres
- Padding on the ground or extra circumferential netting added
- Not to be sighted close to fences, trees or hard surfaces e.g. patios
- Not to be used by children under the age of six
- Parents giving written permission for children to use this equipment

In addition to the conditions listed opposite, we can provide PLI cover for use of a trampoline by minded children under the age of six subject to the following:

- Call SCMA on 01786 445377 to inform us, to ensure we can take note in our records in the event of a claim.
- Written permission from a parent stating that even though their child is below the manufacturers recommended age for use, they give permission for their child to use it.

“Am I covered if minded children use a bouncy castle in my garden?”

Q. Am I covered if minded children use a bouncy castle in my garden?

Q. Does my policy cover injuries to minded children by the family pet?

Yes, providing you are working within the requirements of your registration.

Q. I have lost my insurance certificate, can I request another one?

A £7.50 administration charge will apply.

Q. If I take out SCMA membership first, and then decide to take out insurance at a later date is this acceptable?

Yes, insurance can be taken out at a later date but will expire at the same time as the membership already in place.

Q. I'm a few months late renewing my membership. Can I renew now?

It is essential that you have valid insurance in place whilst you are childminding - this is a requirement of your Care Inspectorate registration. When you renew your insurance, the renewal date will be changed to the day you call to renew.

Additional Frequently Asked Questions are available on the Membership Dashboard at childminding.org.

Q. What does third-party cover mean?

The SCMA policy covers childminders for situations where they are legally liable for any accidental injury to a third party or damage to property of the third-party within their childminding activities.

In order for a claim to be upheld, the childminder must be shown to be at fault and therefore liable for the damage.

Q. Would a child be covered by the childminder's insurance for going out in the car with the childminder and/or her friends and family?

In the majority of incidents injury sustained by a driver or passenger while travelling in a vehicle will be the subject of indemnity under the policyholder's motor insurance policy.

This may involve a claim against a negligent third party if they were responsible for the accident. The childminder should have made their motor insurer aware of their business. Therefore, they would expect the childminder to drive with minded children in the car and will have considered this when calculating the policy premium.

Q. Are children aged seven to 15 years old covered by the insurance for outside recreational activities or walking to and from school unaccompanied?

No, if the childminder is not present then the policy would not cover this.

Q. If I clear the snow on my path/drive and a parent falls and is injured, am I covered?

The childminder has a duty of care for the minded children ensuring safe environment etc. therefore this will assist in minimising the risk of accident/injury. Negligence would have to be proven for a claim to be upheld.

Q. If I let the children play in the garden whilst snow is on the ground and they are injured am I covered?

The childminder has a duty of care for the minded children ensuring safe environment etc. therefore this will assist in minimising the risk of accident/injury. Negligence would have to be proven for a claim to be upheld.

Q. If a parent cannot get to my setting and I collect/take the minded child from/to their own home am I covered if this child is injured?

Yes, you would be covered subject to written consent from the parents.

Q. Can you tell me if I'm insured to use a fire in a fire pit it with the minded children to do things like roasting marshmallows? And using the colour changing sachets on it?

This is acceptable provided risk assessments are done. In part to include for example limiting the number of children using the fire pit at any one time, adequacy of supervision with first aider training/kit being present along with a bucket of cold water nearby.

Q. Would the policy cover the use of a paddling pool or a Lay Z Spa hot tub.

The member would need to undertake a full risk assessment, obtain parental consent and for the children not to be left unattended at any time, in addition to the item being used in accordance with the manufacturer's guidelines. The insurer has also stated that for the Lay Z Spa the adult must also be in the Spa with the children and the adult / child ratio must be adhered to.

Q. Am I covered if I mind a child with additional and complex needs?

SCMA can provide this cover by letter of confirmation for young person's up to 25 years of age.

Q. Am I covered if a child has an allergic reaction?

Yes as long as Food Standards Agency Scotland guidelines are followed. Before admitting a child to the setting the provider must obtain information about any special dietary requirements, preferences and food allergies that the child has, and any special health requirements. Providers must record and act on information from parents and carers about a child's dietary needs. Any provider preparing food must follow food hygiene regulations.

Q. Are Forest Schools activities covered under my policy?

Yes provided the cover is for your usual childminded children and you are present with them. It is essential that risk assessments should be carried out by the childminder and parental consent should be obtained for any trips/ activities you take the children on. Before you proceed with the activities please call SCMA on 01786 445377 to discuss the activities you are planning and to ensure cover is available.

Q. Am I covered to use real tools e.g., knives and hammers etc., as part of activities in my childminding setting?

Our insurers would be really concerned about the use of tools by children that are designed for adult use. Therefore, we are unable to provide any cover for this especially where the usage is not recommended by the manufacturers.

Your demands and needs are those of an individual or business with a need for Public Liability Insurance and, in some cases, Employers' Liability Insurance.

Whilst we have worked with the insurer to provide a level of insurance cover which is appropriate to the general needs of professional child carers, we do not give you advice as to whether this product is suitable for meeting your specific demands and needs; you must therefore carefully read the policy and other documentation, and particularly the section on exclusions and limitations, to determine whether this product is right for you.

Alternatively, you must disclose sufficient information which would put the insurer on notice that it needs to make further enquiries for the purpose of revealing those material circumstances. You are expected to carry out a reasonable search in order to make a fair representation of the risk and will be deemed to know what should reasonably have been revealed by the search.

Your duty of fair representation of the insurance risk applies at the start of the policy, at renewal and when any variation of the policy is arranged. If you fail to make a fair representation, the insurer may refuse to pay your claim or reduce the settlement amount, depending on the circumstances.
